Faculty Position in Mechanical Engineering Department
Worcester Polytechnic Institute

The Mechanical Engineering Department at Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) has a tenure-track faculty position in the advanced manufacturing areas available at the assistant professor level. Research areas of interest include but not limited to: physics-informed machine learning and artificial intelligence, dynamics and controls, and computational design of products and processes. The candidate will be expected to develop an active externally funded research program and teach undergraduate and graduate courses in mechanical engineering. Candidate is required to have a PhD or equivalent degree in mechanical engineering or a relevant discipline.

The Mechanical Engineering Department at WPI (http://www.wpi.edu/academics/me/) has 30 tenured and tenure-track faculty and 8 full-time teaching faculty and offers undergraduate degrees in mechanical engineering to over 900 students. The department offers graduate degrees in mechanical engineering, materials science and engineering, and manufacturing engineering to over 250 graduate students. The department’s annual externally sponsored research awards have exceeded $17.5M.

WPI’s reputation as a rigorous and innovative university rests on the shoulders of its faculty. A highly selective, private technological university and one of the nation’s first, WPI believes that when great minds work together, great advances follow. At WPI the boundaries to multidisciplinary collaboration are low—faculty members, students, and other partners work together on the real-world projects and purposeful research that are hallmarks of the WPI experience. Located one hour west of Boston, the university’s campus is in Worcester, Massachusetts, a thriving 21st century college city recognized as a growing hub of scientific and technological innovation.
